

At the Big Red Tie

Before waitstaff were permitted to serve patrons of “la Grande Cravate Rouge” (the Big Red Tie), they had to pass a rigorous training program. Maybe the servers wouldn’t have to balance a bottle of Vichy water on their heads every day, but it did happen, particularly during “Zero Gravity Week,” which occurs each October.