

Dear Patty (2)

Dear Patty,

I remembered that you were looking for an orthodontist for your little Truman. Well, I found him! He's Doctor Dimdents, and he has an office over in Clovis. Did you see him on the evening news last night? Probably not, because he was the one holding the towel over his face during the police raid. Well, I'm sure it was all a big misunderstanding. Sure, his technique may raise eyebrows (ha!) among his fuddy-duddy colleagues, but the results he gets can't be pooh-poohed! So don't let the retainers he uses alarm you. He seems to know what he's doing.

Oh, and did you decide if you wanted to sign up for that Styrofoam tombstone craft class? Let me know soon, okay?

Mwah, and thanks!