

Emil

Emil loved being a dirigible pilot! It was a truly magical feeling as he soared gently with the wind, an experience he liked to call an “aerial nature walk.” Of course, there was a downside to the job: he almost always got a bad case of hyperventilation syndrome when he was about halfway through inflating the darned balloon!