

Ferrante and Teicher

The first discovery that doctors Ferrante and Teicher made when the two world-famous serpentologists settled their decades-long feud and began to work together was that the normally potent anesthetic cocktail of gallamine and pancuronium had no effect on really big snakes. Unfortunately, it was also their last discovery together.