

The Acme Amplifying Hair Net™

Blanche's telephone reception was spotty at best – she lived miles from the nearest telephone pole, after all. However, it improved appreciably whenever she donned her Acme Magnetotron Amplifying Hair Net™. Suddenly, the faintest telephonical signal was rendered loud and clear. The only downside was that the device sucked vital W-rays from the wearer's brain, eventually causing the hippocampus to reinvent itself as a stalk of celery. Such a health risk might give others pause, but not Blanche. Still reveling in her "Miss Celery, 1999 Beanoboro County Fair" award, she deigned to doff her leafy green tiara only when she had to make a phone call.