

The Model 5

In 2002, Elmer P. Dinklaker Milliners, Ltd. revolutionized the headgear industry when it introduced a line of hats that stayed put on the wearer's head even under the windiest of conditions. A simple harness anchored hat to head with a minimum of fuss, and the Dink-o-hat Model 5™ was a huge success. The same could not be said, however, for Models 1 through 4 – though the Model 2 did enjoy a brief period of notoriety when its doppelgänger appeared in a retrospective of the accoutrements of the Marquis de Sade.
