

In a Foreign Nasal Corridor

Loretta was the first woman in recorded history to disprove the old adage, “You can pick your friends and you can pick your nose, but you can’t pick your friend’s nose.” Sure, she did so with a ten-foot pole and her “friend” was Edith, the Flederer Family Circus’s lap-dancing camel, but let’s not quibble over technicalities. Loretta should be applauded for finally ending the unwarranted stigma attached to mucking about in a foreign nasal corridor.