

Parallel Parking

The parallel parking part of Grand Prix auto racing was among the most exciting aspects of the event. So when race stewards finally eliminated it, calling it “a disaster waiting to happen” (after 142 disastrous crashes had already occurred), angry spectators took the matter – i.e., the stewards – into their own hands and flung them higgledy-piggledy onto the track, making for an even higher point in Grand Prix auto racing excitement.