

Using His Head

Last year, house razing projects in Concho County were few and far between, causing Dinklaker Demolition to miss six consecutive payments on its business loan. Hence, the bank had no option but to repossess the company's prized D4K XL bulldozer. So when a demolition job finally did materialize, company president Daryl Dinklaker solved the missing equipment issue by using his head.