

Zelicious and Zavory

For nine years, Tim and Zaknob Pringler had carried only poultry in their butcher shop. It was always of the highest quality and the brothers were never wanting for customers. But Zaknob had long wanted to expand their product line; he didn't, however, want to go down the typical beef, buffalo, or pork road. But what else was there? The answer came on the fateful day that Tim's niece and nephew, Zelicious and Zavory, stopped by the shop on their way home from school, and a distorted light bulb went on in Zaknob's head.